A. Entrance to the Building

~ During normal business hours (8:30 AM – 4 PM, Monday through Friday): For your safety, it is necessary for you to sign in upon arrival. Entry to the building is through the front entrance, labeled “Visitor’s Entrance.” There is a contact list and a telephone available so you can reach your Account Manager. Simply call their extension and they will meet you in the lobby and assign a Customer ID Badge to you for the duration of your visit which will grant access through the lobby door 8:30 AM – 4 PM Monday through Friday and the door at the center of the building after hours. Your Account Manager will contact you with specific instructions

B. Safety Precautions

~ You will be accompanied by a Dingley employee at all times while on the plant floor.
~ It is required that all persons on the plant floor wear hearing protection to prevent hearing damage. Hearing protection is provided at all indoor entrances to the plant.
~ Proper footwear should be worn at all times while on the plant floor, i.e. no open toed shoes such as sandals or flip-flops should be worn. Keep to the designated walkways.
~ Your Customer Badge should also be visible.

C. Press Procedures

~ Press crew performs stationary make-ready (changing plates, paper, inspecting rollers, blankets, etc.)
~ Press crew performs running make-ready (adjusting web cutoff, folds, register, ink/water balance, etc.)
~ When lead person determines they are running pleasing color and the cutoff folds are accurate, he/she will make the decision to start saving
~ Printed sample sheets are released briefly to Pre-press for their final check on accuracy of content
~ Our Close Loop Color System will assist the press crews to verify print quality to S.W.O.P., then fine-tune color as needed
~ Once a press sheet has been approved, the Close Loop Color System will maintain the densities and automatically make changes to the color as needed. This will allow the press crew to use density information throughout the press run to aid in maintaining a consistent visual match
~ If you require stitched and trimmed samples before you leave please inform your Account Manager in advance.

D. Customer Approval Process

~ If you have any general comments or concerns regarding your color approval, please discuss with your Account Manager prior to press make-ready.
~ You may begin the approval process as soon as we begin to save. Based on experience, we believe the best results are obtained if the press crew is allowed the time to analyze the sheets in accordance with S.W.O.P. before the customer fine-tunes the color.
~ In a group, it is recommended that one person be designated to fine-tune color. If multiple people are involved in the color approval process, our direction from you may be mixed and your goals may not be achieved. Your clear, concise communication will help us give you the product you want. Words like “pop” and “punch” can easily be misunderstood. More specific communication will speed up the process during this printing, and also help us develop your color preference profile for future printing.
~ Priority of in-line concerns should be set by the customer.
~ When the press sheet meets your approval, please endorse it with your name and the date. Your signed sheet will be our color guide for the press run.

~ Please keep in mind that we are saving product while you are making color adjustments.
